partner at Hinckley, Allen & Snyder, is a business lawyer with over 11 years' experience.

Haskell represents individuals, companies, start-ups, shareholders, and business executives in all manner of commercial transactions, including business formation, debt and equity finance, acquisition or sale of a business, executive employment agreements and compensation, and shareholder disputes.

"I am thrilled to have opened a practice in Jamestown. I am looking forward to sharing my experience at bigger firms with the local community," Haskell said. "My practice dovetails nicely with Kristine's. Together, we can handle almost any legal matter we are likely to face."

Also joining the firm as office manager is Kristine's mother, Sandra Trocki, who responsibilities include client relations, billing, file management, and occasionally entertaining her grandson Teddy or Brian's three children, Nicholas, Jacob and Natalie, when they visit after school.

Haskell Trocki officially opened its doors Jan. 1 after nearly three months of office renovation. The partners have finally cleaned the paint off their fingers, put the construction and decorating tools away, donned their pin-stripes and are working full time in the practice of law.

Haskell Trocki welcomes new clients. Call 423-3390 for an appointment or drop in and see the new office.

Haskell Trocki will host an open house on Groundhog Day – Thursday, Feb. 2 – from 4 to 8 p.m. All are invited.

Workshop to discuss humanities grants

The Preservation Society of Newport County and the Arts and Cultural Alliance of Newport County will co-host a public workshop by the Rhode Island Council for the Humanities on Tuesday, Jan. 31, at the Preservation Society's main headquarters at 424 Bellevue Ave., in Newport, beginning at 4:15 p.m.

An independent state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities, RICH's mission is to inspire and support intellectual curiosity and imagination in all Rhode Islanders through lifelong learning in the humanities.

RICH's public programs include readings and discussions, current-events public panels, and radio shows. RICH also maintains an active Speakers' Bureau, and partners with national programs in literacy, public policy, and civic engagement.

For more information and to sign up for the RICH Workshop, contact the Rhode Island Council for the Humanities, 385 Westminster St., Suite 2, Providence, RI 02903, call 273-2250, or e-mail Sue@rihumanities.org.
