Town to auction off old equipment

The motto for the town's equipment auction to be held Nov. 18, might very well be "Out with the old and in with the new."

Going up for sale is a variety of used equipment, including a large self-contained transfer trailer, the old fire rescue boat, a street sweeper, Fred Brown's ex-building inspection vehicle/ex-police car, the senior citizens' bus, and a variety of other pieces of surplus equipment.

Councilman William Kelly proposed the auction over a year ago, but felt it was worth the wait because town officials used some of the surplus equipment, like the old track machine at the transfer station, as trade-ins on the new equipment. Doing so saved the town thousands of dollars on the purchase of a new backhoe and pay loader.

The procedure being utilized by the town for this auction is something this community should be very familiar with. It will be a silent auction format. The equipment and other items being auctioned will be available for inspection Thursday, Nov. 2, from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. until Saturday, Nov. 18, during normal business hours at the transfer station. Items will also be listed on the town Web site at www.jamestownri.net under Public Auction. Bid forms will be available at the Town Offices, 44 Southwest Ave., Jamestown. Bids will be accepted until 11 a.m. on Monday, Nov. 20, in a sealed envelope marked "Auction" at the Town Offices, 44 Southwest Avenue, Jamestown. All bids received will be publicly opened and read shortly after the deadline of 11 a.m. at the Town Hall located at 245 Conanicus Ave.

Book discussion turns to Becker's 'Covenant with Death'

The Afternoon Book Discussion at the Jamestown library will continue on Nov. 14, the second Tuesday of the month, from 1 to 2 p.m. with the book "A Covenant with Death" by Stephen Becker.

From the jacket cover: "In the southwest in 1923, a man is charged with the murder of his very beautiful wife. The story is told by a judge, then only 29, whose personal flaws and conflicts with women, with success, with life itself mirror, and are mirrored in, the decision he alone must hand down, so that all the crises of his own life, and of his own society, are bound in deadly intimacy to the life and death of others." This book is a favorite of one of the discussion group members.

Stephen D. Becker was a native New Yorker, a translator and novelist who died in 1999.

There are very few copies of this book in the system, so book discussion members are asked to read and return their copies as soon as possible.

Titles and dates of some future discussions are: "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" by Betty Smith, Dec.12; and "Mirage" by Soheir Khashoggi, Jan. 9

These books may be obtained through the Jamestown library by placing holds on one of the many copies in the state available through the Cooperating Libraries Automated Network or CLAN.

The meetings are free and open to the public. For more information, call the library at 423-7280.
