St. Michael's presents awards

The Middle School students, faculty and parents at St. Michael's Country Day School recently paid tribute to the fall soccer season at the school's Fall Sports Awards ceremony.

Receiving special recognition for his performance this fall on the Boys A (varsity) soccer team was grade-8 student Liam O'Farrell of Jamestown, who received a Coach's Award.

Rocky Hill soccer wins division

On Friday, Nov. 10, the Rocky Hill School Boys' Varsity Soccer team won the SENE Division II Championship against Hyde School by a score of 8-2.

After posting an 8-1-1 league record and winning their division, the team has been selected as one of eight teams in New England to play in the New England Preparatory School Athletic Council Boys' Soccer Tournament (Class D). They are one of only two Rhode Island teams invited among all classes (A-D).

Gray Twombly from Jamestown is a forward on the squad.

North Kingstown soccer team has winning season

NK cross-country teams place first

The North Kingstown Skippers girls' cross-country team took first place in the RILL State track meet, which was held Nov. 5 at Ponagansett High School. The team took five straight titles in prior years, but lost last year to Coventry.

Contributing to the win for NK, were Jamestown students Erin Brennan, a senior, and Caitlin Crawford, a junior.

The NK Skippers boy's cross-country team defeated the highly competitive Bishop Hendricken Hawks for first place in the high school southern division.

Competing from Jamestown were Gary Largess and Owen White, both seniors, and Nate Wigton, a junior.

Sunday knitting circle at Jamestown library

The next Sunday Knitting Circle at Jamestown library will take place on Nov. 19 from 1 to 3 p.m.

The Sunday sessions are free and open to all levels of expertise. Participants should bring their own needles and yarn. Registration is not needed for the Sunday sessions.

Knitting will take place in the children's area of the library.

For more information about this and other library programs, visit the library at 26 North Main Rd., call 423-7280, or look at the calendar of events on www.jamestownri.com/library/.

Protest songs to be performed

Award-winning local musicians Joyce Katzberg, Charlie King and Karen Brandow will speak and perform at the University of Rhode Island on Tuesday, Nov. 28, at 7:30 p.m. in Edwards Auditorium, Kingston campus. Their visit is part of the URI Honors Colloquium, Songs of Social Justice: The Rhetoric of Music, a semester-long series that explores music as a means of expression, persuasion, and mobilization. It is free and open to the public.

The three activist/musicians will explore the contemporary issues they sing about on a daily basis. Katzberg has performed for more than 30 years. She was born on a military base into a musical family. Her father is Jody Gibson, leader of the Muleskinners, a racially integrated rock-a-billy band from the '50s. She grew up singing with her father and had her first performance in 1968 in Pawtucket, R.I. She has been performing ever since teaching and testifying in coffeehouses, taverns, and picket lines along the east coast.

King and Brandow, both folk-singers and musical storytellers, sing and write about ordinary people who lead extraordinary lives. King is a native of Brockton, Mass. who has been performing folk music for more than 40 years. His music is representative of the folk movement of the early '60s, the Civil Rights Movement, and the Vietnam War era.

Brandow has performed with King since 1998. A native of Philadelphia, she worked for human rights in Guatemala from 1986 to 1994. She has studied voice and classical guitar and performed at political and cultural events in Guatemala as a soloist. She also formed an a cappella group.

Visit www.uri.edu/hc for the colloquium schedule and directions. For more information, contact the URI Honors Center at 401-874-2303 or debg@uri.edu.
