Beavertail open house scheduled

The Beavertail Lighthouse Museum will open its doors to visitors on Sunday, Dec. 3, from one until 3 p.m.

All are invited to look at the exhibits and learn about the people and equipment that worked ceaselessly to help keep mariners safe throughout the light's more than 250 years of service.

Meet the folks who keep the light shining on this national historic site so that present and future generations will know the key role Beavertail played on Narragansett Bay night and day, during war and peace.

Enjoy the tasty refreshments presented by members of the Beavertail Lighthouse Museum Association, and shop the museum store for apparel, giftware, books, cards, jewelry reflecting a bit of the beauty and historical significance of the third lighthouse built in the United States.
