

For the record

•All letters sent to the Town Council are public records and available to all citizens. Occasionally, the Press may publish a letter to the council. These letters appear on the opinion page. The Press does not request permission of a letter writer prior to publication of a letter.

•In a letter written by Janice and Jeff Spotts that ran in the Jan. 11 edition of the Press, some words were inadvertently left out causing the beginning of one sentence to be coupled with the end of the following sentence. The corrected sentences should have read: "The location staff were responsive and courteous, but there was only so much that they could do to rectify the situation. As you know, this was an enormous undertaking that could not be confined to the private properties deriving financial benefit from it."

Lawn school eighth-grade Lego League championship award winners.

Warriors place at Lego championships

Three teams of eighth-graders competed at the recent Rhode Island First Lego League state championship and won honorable mentions for their work. Awards represent the highest achievement for the teams, and all teams receive judging for a group of awards that recognize a standard of excellence for all participants.

The Warriors, Team 10 from 8-Y, won the Creative Presentation Honorable Mention Award for an imaginative, creative presentation demonstrating the team's research and solution. Team members were: Julia Hansen, Anne Langan, Katie Marquis, Ashlin Gillis, Eric Holtzman, and Nick Lee.

The Warriors 1, Team 11 from 8-X, won the Research Quality Honorable Mention Award for the use and understanding of diverse resources to formulate an in-depth and thorough explanation of the team's point of view and solution to the challenge project. Team members were: Hannah Cordes, Caia Diepenbrock, Christian Tiexiera, Carla Aveledo, Clay Caswell, Wes Barber, and Catie Matley.

The Warriors 2, Team 12 from 8-Z, won the Innovative Solution Honorable Mention Award for a thought-provoking and innovative resolution, including how and why the team chose their selected application of research. Team members were: Dan Hansen, Megan Salt, Andy Sakovits, Noah Robinson, Ben Thompson, and Dylan Vogel.

Using Jamestown Fitness on a regular basis has improved my health and athletic performance in ways I never imagined. Knee pain, which used to keep me up at night, is gone. I haven't missed school due to sickness in two years. Finally I earned my first ever national ranking in Platform Tennis and had my best-ever performance in the Rhode Island Amateur Golf Championships.
