Qualifying for a low interest loan

USDA Rural Development in Warwick, RI is accepting applications for those individuals interested in applying for assistance to purchase or build a single family home or to purchase a condominium in an eligible rural area. USDA Rural Development's Single-Family Direct Housing Loan Program (Section 502) provides individuals and families the opportunity to purchase or build a home with no down payment and financing of up to 100%. Jamestown is in the eligible rural area.

Financing is available for modest, detached, single family homes or condominiums in designated rural areas of Rhode Island (there are 28 eligible communities in Rhode Island). Eligible applicants must be unable to secure a conventional bank mortgage and be in need of a home that will be occupied as their primary residence. Applicants are expected to have a dependable source of income and a reasonably good history of paying past credit obligations.

The program's maximum household income varies according to family size, and the town in which the property is located. Generally, the income for a one-member household cannot exceed $41,000; a two-member household, $46,850; and a three-member household, $52,700.

Further information and applications may be obtained at the USDA Rural Development office located at 60 Quaker Lane, Suite 44, Warwick, RI, by calling 826-0842, or by visiting USDA Rural Development's website at www.rurdev.usda.gov/ma.

The USDA is an Equal Opportunity lender, provider and employer.
