and turned away, back to Europe and his base.

"When Steigler landed he told his commander that the American plane had been shot down over the sea, and never told the truth to anybody. Charlie Brown and the remainder of his crew told all at their briefing, but were ordered never to talk about it. More than 40 years later, Charlie Brown wanted to find the Luftwaffe pilot who saved his crew. After much research, Franz Steigler was found. He had never talked about the incident, not even at post-war reunions.

"Charlie Brown and Franz Steigler met at a 379th Bomber Group reunion, together with other crew members who are alive now, all because the German pilot, Franz Steigler, never fired his guns that day.

"Research shows that Charlie Brown lived in Seattle, and Franz Steigler had moved to Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, after the war. When they finally met, they discovered they had lived less than 200 miles apart for the past 50 years!"

Great story, governor, thank you!

Sunday is Pentecost.

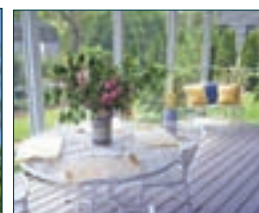

Monday is Memorial Day observed. Put out your flag, thank a member of the Armed Forces, watch the parade, and remember!
