Weather History

Oct. 4, 1777 - The Battle of Germantown was fought in a morning fog that grew more dense with the smoke of battle, causing great confusion. Some Americans accidentally fired at each other, and this contributed to the loss of the battle.

Oct. 5, 1638 - The journal of John Winthrop recorded that a mighty tempest struck eastern New England. This second severe hurricane in three years blew down many trees in mile long tracks.

Help needed to clean up the shoreline

The organization Clean The Bay, which received a grant in the amount of $170,000 to remove large items of debris from the Rhode Island shoreline, is looking for individuals to help with the smaller items that line the beaches.

This fall, anyone interested in helping with environmental cleanup activities can contact Vanessa Venturini, volunteer coordinator at the Department of Environmental Management for the Clean The Bay effort, at 222-3434, ext. 4401.

In addition to volunteers to clean up, individuals are also needed, who own property along the shoreline, to give access to these volunteers to help clean this debris. They are also asked to call and identify any heavy material that is on their property along the shoreline that needs to be removed such as camel (heavy abandoned Navy fenders) docks that have washed ashore or pilings.

'Songs of the Sea' at URI Oct. 14

Summer may be officially over, but you can still go down to the sea again, in song, at the University of Rhode Island on Sunday, Oct. 14.

The second University Artist Series concert of the 2007-08 season will be devoted to the moods and mystique of the sea and those who live in and on it, and will be offered in Kingston at 3 p.m., featuring baritone Rene de la Garza.

The program will include a variety of musical styles and works, including German Lieder, art songs, sea shanties, arias and choral pieces.

The featured artist for this concert, de la Garza, has performed with opera companies and orchestras throughout the Northeast and has recorded on New World Records with the Boston Camerata.

The concert will be held in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall off Upper College Road on URI's Kingston. Admission is $8 for the general public, and $2 for students, with seating on a first-come basis. The box office opens 45-minutes before the concert.

For information, call the music department at 874-2431.
