

Kavi Carbone puts on buggy show at the library

Christopher "Kavi" Carbone will perform his show "Spiders, Mosquitoes and Bugs—Oh My," on Saturday, June 28, at the Jamestown library.

This show, for kids ages 4 to 10, features songs like "The Funky Funky Spider," and more hoppin' songs & stories from the fascinating insect world.

Carbone will weave a web of wonder through storytelling, music and interactive fun. The show begins at 11 a.m. as part of the 2008 Summer Reading Program "Catch the Reading Bug!"

Registration is not required for this free program, sponsored by the Friends of Jamestown Philomenian Library, Rhode Island Office of Library and Information Services, the Institute of Museum and Library Services, and McDonald's Restaurants of Rhode Island.

Jamestown - Also known as the Lyman-Cottrell Farm-house-Pristine, undeveloped and private 32 acres only a short distance to Mackerel Cove Beach. One of the only true antique Colonials remaining on the island, built in the late 1750's including 4 fireplaces and retaining many original details, is in need of total rehabilitation.
$5,200,000 401-423-3440

Jamestown - "Gull's Nest" Unobstructed, expansive views of Mackerel Cove and the entrance to Narragansett Bay's Newport Harbor. Spectacular 5 1/2 acres with over 250 ft of natural waterfront, secret gardens and wandering foot paths. Originally built in circa 1926 as a summer cottage, later expanded into two separate but attached living quarters.
