One day photographic workshop planned

Eileen McCarney Muldoon and Cindy Horovitz Wilson will be conducting a one-day photographic workshop July 17 at the beautiful Gilbert Stuart Museum in North Kingstown.

Wilson will focus on sharing her knowledge of the technical aspects of photography and the need to have a basic understanding of the medium in order to create beautiful photographs.

Muldoon will assist participants in the art of seeing to create a photograph that is alive. Their goal is teach people how to connect the heart and soul to the brain during the photographic process. Both digital and film cameras are welcome.

Enrollment is limited to 12 students. The cost is $48. Bring a lunch and a tripod, if one is available.

Contact Muldoon at emmageloft@cox.net or Wilson at chwphoto@verizon.net to enroll.

that) a study of Jamestown's building and health codes will begin at once to determine possible violations of both by those who come to the town and erect homes for the summer. ... Chairman Stephen R. Smith and Councilman Harold E. Shippee were appointed a committee to contact the Navy to allow the reopening of Beavertail for the summer. Shippee said he had been working for legislation to have the area returned to the town and will continue to work toward that end.

A Jamestown family returned home Saturday after three and a half years of cruising their sailboat around the world. At precisely noon, Chris and Trice Bouziad and their daughter Jaime sailed their Little Harbor 50 Wai-Aniwa to their house on Mackerel Cove.

The Jamestown Museum will present "Back to the 40s, part II" as its new summer exhibit.

Save the Bay's recent "ugly" rating of the town's sewage treatment plant is unfair, according to Public Works Director Steven Goslee.

Fifty-eight Jamestown School eighth graders received congratulations, awards, and diplomas last week at a graduation ceremony in the Lawn Avenue gymnasium.
