

OBITUARIES

Theresa A. Deacon, 78

Theresa A. (Walsh) Deacon, 78, of North Kingstown, formerly of Jamestown, died Friday, Sept. 19, 2008 at the home of her son.

She was the wife of the late James Francis Deacon.

Born in Manhattan, N.Y., on Oct. 12, 1929, she was the daughter of the late John and Mary (Hughes)

Walsh.

Mrs. Deacon was a Communicant of St. Marks Church. She enjoyed spending time with her grandchildren.

She is survived by three sons, Kevin F. Deacon and Patrick Deacon of Jamestown, and James Deacon of North Kingstown, a brother Joseph Walsh of New York, a sister Ann Shustack of Walden, N.Y., and five grandchildren. She was also the sister of the late John Walsh, Thomas Walsh, Claire Pinichio, Helen Walsh, and Mary Gorman.

A chapel service will be held on Friday, Sept. 26, 2008, at 10 a.m. in the Rhode Island Veterans Cemetery, 301 South County Trail, Exeter, RI.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to the Home & Hospice Care of RI, 169 George St., Pawtucket, RI, 02860.

Funeral arrangements were made by Memorial Funeral Home. Directions are available at www.memorialfuneralhome.com

Eve Mills Kelley, 85

Eve Mills Kelley, 85, of Hilton Head Island, S.C., died Aug. 7, 2008 at Hilton Head Hospital.

Eve was born June 22, 1923 in Louisville, Ky. Her parents were Raymond Peter Mills and Kathryn Baldwin Mills. She moved to New York City and lived permanently with her grandmother, Ann Eve Walsh, when she was 13.

In January 1942, she graduated from George Washington High School in New York and then attended Columbia University, where she also worked for four years.

Her professional career spanned duties from assistant to the managing editor at Double-day & Company to general editor/advertising coordinator with American Institute of Chemical Engineers. She also performed similar duties with Sperry Marine, Instrument Systems Corporation, Educational Developmental Laboratories, Communication Associates Inc. and the Sunday Digest in Huntington, N.Y.

Eve spent most of her adult life on Long Island, N.Y. She remained a member of Centerport Yacht Club until her death. She also was a member of Caloosa Yacht & Racket Club in Fort Myers, Fla. and the Yacht Club of Hilton Head Island in South Carolina.

Eve Kelley was a "woman of the heart." She loved her country, her family, sailing and the water. She lived life to the fullest; as close to the water as she could get. She cherished her friendships and was revered as "Chicken" by her adopted Naval Academy Dinghy Sailors (NADS). She was preceded in death by her husband George Kelley, brothers Jack and Bert, and many dear friends in Long Island N.Y., Fort Myers, Fla. and Hilton Head Island, South Carolina.

She is survived by her daughter, Nancy Kurt, her husband and their sons, Cem and Kaan Peter; her son, Peter Hyers, his wife and their sons, Patrick and Christopher; cousins, Jean Marie Purcell, Bob and Suzanne Purcell, Martha Mary and Bob Hart, and Karen Purcell Roley.

As requested, her ashes will be sprinkled in Huntington Bay, Long Island, N.Y. She will be dearly missed.

Thomas P. O'Callaghan, 66

Thomas "Tom" Patrick O'Callaghan, 66, of Jamestown, died peacefully in his home on Sept. 22, 2008.

The youngest of six siblings who grew up in Newton, Mass., he was a renaissance man with eclectic tastes and many talents. As a teenager at the Christian Brothers School in Boston, he excelled in sports and went to Brandeis University on a basketball scholarship. He was remembered by teammates as "small but feisty."

At Brandeis, Tom majored in history and comparative literature. After college he moved to

New York, drove a cab at night, worked as a case worker and supervisor for the New York City Department of Welfare and attended law school at Fordham University, graduating in 1970.

He went on to work for the Manhattan District Attorney's Office as deputy county attorney and chief of the Litigation Bureau of Westchester County.

Later, he moved to Maine and opened a bookstore called North Light Books.

Tom also sold antique and contemporary Oriental rugs. Returning to Rhode Island, Tom pursued his passion and opened a rug gallery in Newport. He also taught business law at NEIT and worked as a library assistant at the Jamestown library.

Tom's favorite pastimes were the quiet pursuits of golf, reading and amateur photography.

He is survived by his wife Allie; a brother, Edmund; a sister, Dorothea; his son, Christopher; three daughters, Kimberly, Seana and Katie; two grandsons and many nephews and nieces.

Donations can be sent to Partners in Health, 800 Boylston St., 47th Floor, Boston, MA 02199.

Flowers may be sent to St. Denis Church, 157 Washington St., Westwood, MA 02090.

Funeral services will be held at St. Denis Church on Saturday, Oct. 4, at 9 a.m.
