

Fill an empty bowl tomorrow

Great soup, homemade desserts and live jazz will all be cooked up tomorrow, Friday, Nov. 14, from 3:30 to 7 p.m. in the Melrose School Multipurpose Room for the 2008 Empty Bowls Fund-raiser. Soups, bread, homemade desserts and drinks are included in the admission price. This is truly a community event; all funds raised by the dinner will provide direct support to the Rhode Island Community Food Bank.

Jamestown is in its fourth year of holding this event which raises about $5,000 annually. All funds raised by this event are doubled through a challenge grant to the Rhode Island Food Bank.

Complementing the food, highlights include a live jazz trio, which will be playing for tips and a silent auction with bowl themed art and other items will be held. The making of the soups this year is supported by the Jamestown Rotary Club and will be made by volunteers from the community.

Doors open at 3:30 p.m., the cost will be $15 for adults, $10 for children, and t-shirts will be sold for $8 each.

ABOUT TOWN

Holistic beauty topic of book talk at library

The Friends of the Jamestown Library will host a talk on Thursday, Nov. 20, at 7 p.m. by Susan West Kurz who will talk about her book "Awakening Beauty."

Susan Kurz nurtured Dr. Hauschka Skin Care, Inc. from a modest import business to the U.S. supplier of the industry's premiere holistic skin care brand. She is renowned as an expert on holistic beauty, a subject she's studied since 1972 when she was first introduced to Dr. Hauschka Skin Care products and treatment methods.

Susan divides her time between Amherst, Mass. and Jamestown. She is married to Clifford Kurz, co-founder of Dr. Hauschka Skin Care, Inc.

The program is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served.

Housing topic of church forum

Increased mortgage expenses, rising heating costs, and unexpected repair bills can place homeowners in a housing "bind."

Rhode Island Housing staff members will provide tips and strategies to avoid such binds during a forum on Sunday, Nov. 16, at 11 a.m. at Central Baptist Church. The program, which is free of cost, is open to all residents of Jamestown and surrounding areas.

Rhode Island Housing works to ensure that all people who live and work in Rhode Island can afford a safe, healthy home that meets their needs. The organization provides low-interest loans, grants, education, advocacy and consumer counseling to help customers buy and retain their homes.

Cathleen Paniccia, the organization's director of administration and home ownership, and Elaine Hebert, assistant director of alternative lending, will lead the forum.

Forum participants will be able to sign up for private consultations on what to do when facing trouble with housing-related expenses or the risk of losing a home to foreclosure.

Central Baptist Church is located at 99 Narragansett Ave. For more information about the forum, call 423-1651.

Broadway takes stage at recreation center

This weekend the Jamestown Community Theatre will present Jon Peterson, Broadway and off-Broadway actor, singer and dancer in a one-man premiere cabaret called, "Song Man, Dance Man."

This weekend's musical numbers will feature songs and dances originally performed by George M. Cohan, Gene Kelly, Fred Astaire, Sammy Davis Jr., Charles Aznavour, and Anthony Newley. Peterson wrote the script for the show, and this will be his official opening venue.

A native of London, Peterson is a veteran of numerous West End musicals, with credits including "The Sound Of Music," "Dames At Sea," "Cats," "A Chorus Line," "Blitz!" and "She Loves Me."

There will be two performances at the Jamestown Recreation Center on Saturday, Nov. 15, at 7:30 p.m. and on Sunday, Nov. 16, at 4 p.m.
