James A Bridge Apart / A World Away town

Tree man
The New Year's Eve snowstorm left an interesting visitor in Jean Britton's backyard. Britton had added the eyes, nose and mouth to the tree, but the blowing snow added personality to the inanimate object.

Town Council Folly

"The Jamestown Town Council will... take action to abandon as a public highway the extension of Eldred Avenue between East Shore [Road] and Narragansett Bay... The Town right of way to the shore is bounded on both sides by land owned by Commerce Oil Refining Corp. When the road is abandoned... [ownership of the] strip will pass to [Commerce Oil]."
-Newport Daily News, December 10, 1957

•••

What a loss to the Town! Prime public access to the Bay, with a substantial pier constructed by the Navy, was snatched from our Town's citizens forever by a short-sighted Council.

•••

Several lessons emerge: a) the support of an apparent majority of the citizenry does not insure correct Council judgments; b) nor does the blessing of the Town Solicitor; and c) citizens must remain ever vigilant to guard against foolish acts (and worse) by their government.

•••

Every citizen here should read (and read again periodically) Dismissed With Prejudice, by Mary Stearns McGaughan and Terrence F. McGaughan.
