

Where in the World is the Jamestown Press?

Sam Ackerman recently took the Press to Yosemite National Park. Here he is standing on Half Dome, with Yosemite falls over his left shoulder and El Capitan over his right.

Featured Jamestown cartoonist will sign books at gallery opening

Sam Ackerman, whose "Sam's Cats" cartoons are featured in the Jamestown Press, and Genevieve Dupre, a Jamestown resident and artist, will show their works at the Schock Gallery at East Ferry starting Saturday, June 20.

The show, which will run for three weeks, will have an opening reception this Saturday, June 20 from 5 to 8 p.m.

Ackerman will sign copies of his book, "What cats can and can't do" at the reception. Sam said he grew up with dogs and cats, and currently has two cats. "I draw cats as they are a little more mischievous than dogs. If I left my car keys out, my dog might just chew on them, where my cat would probably take a trip to Providence," he recently told the Press.

Dupre is a student at the San Francisco Art Institute, and will be showing work from her recent travels around Europe, as well as local scenes.

MURPHY'S LAW

It is hard to be sympathetic toward victims who, without inquiry, happily accepted investment returns that were unrealistically both high and steady.

When you get right down to it, any investment strategy premised primarily upon rising prices, rather than upon value added through work, asset improvement, or enhanced productivity, is, to some degree, a Ponzi scheme.

When a significant portion of the goodies of a society are reserved for those who add no value, periodic crashes are inevitable. After all, sooner or later, someone always notices that "the Emperor has no clothes".

"The layman's constitutional view is that what he likes is constitutional and that which he doesn't like is unconstitutional."

— U.S. Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black, 1886-1971
