

Schlachter, Feeley plan October wedding

Drew Schlachter and Lori Campbell of Jamestown announce the engagement of their daughter, Lacey Schlachter, to Michael Feeley, son of Donna and Terry Feeley of Saundertown.

The couple met in high school and has been together for nine years. Both are graduates of the University of Rhode Island.

Lacey has taught middle and high school science, and now works at URI as a coordinator for the SMILE program, a math and science academic enrichment program for fourth through twelfth graders.

Mike is a firefighter with the North Smithfield Fire Department. He has a degree in wildlife conservation biology.

The couple will marry in October, 2010, in Narragansett.

DEM taking applications for summer jobs

The Dept. of Environmental Management is now taking applications for its 2010 seasonal employment program.

Various positions for the summer season are available throughout Rhode Island for residents 16 years of age and older. Work on weekends and on holidays is required of most summer positions.

Positions include, but are not limited to, park ranger levels I, II and III, beach managers, seasonal laborers, lifeguards, life-guard captains, recreational area clerks, restroom attendants, student researchers, clerical support aides, technical support interns, policy interns and technical field interns. Pay ranges from $7.50 to $13.75 per hour, and most seasonal employees work 40 hours a week, including weekends and holidays.

Although park ranger level I applicants may be 16 years of age, those applying for seasonal park ranger positions at levels II and III must be 18 years of age or older. Park rangers patrol park areas, assist visitors, inspect facilities and assist with routine operation of state parks and beaches.

Information about DEM and all seasonal positions, as well as downloadable application forms, are available online at www.dem.ri.gov; click on "jobs," then "seasonal positions."

Portsmouth Abbey honors island students

Two Jamestown students have been named to the dean's list for the fall 2009 trimester at Portsmouth Abbey School. They are sophomores Fergus O'Farrell and Stephanie Waterman.

Named to the honor roll for the fall trimester at the school were Jamestowners freshman Katherine Normand, sophomores Jeffery Heath and Matthew Jewell-DeMieri, junior William O'Farrell and senior Elizabeth Cook.

The dean's list formally recognizes the scholastic achievement of students whose average is unusually distinguished. To qualify, a student must take at least six courses, have a GPA of 3.5 and no grade under B in regular courses or under B- in Honors/AP courses. Students on the honor roll have a GPA of 3.0 and no grade under C+.

Conlon named to president's list

Molly Conlon of Jamestown has been named to the president's list for the fall 2009 semester at Plymouth State University in Plymouth, N.H.
